OVERVIEW:

The two-semester Advanced Placement Program in European History is designed to provide students with the analytic skills and factual knowledge necessary to deal critically with the problems and materials in European history. The program prepares the student for intermediate and advanced college courses by making demands upon him/her equivalent to those made by full-year introductory college courses. The student should learn to assess historical materials—their relevance to a given interpretive problem, their reliability, and their importance—and to weigh the evidence and interpretations presented in historical scholarship. This course will thus develop the skills necessary to arrive at conclusions on the basis of an informed judgment and to present reasons and evidence clearly and persuasively in essay format.

In addition to exposing the student to the factual narrative, the course will give him/her an understanding of some of the principal themes in modern European history as well as train them to analyze and interpret primary sources, including documentary material, maps, statistical tables, and pictorial and graphic evidence of historical events.
